SEA ISLAND VICTIMS STILL IN NEED.

AN APPEAL FROM THE RED CROSS—DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THE WORK BEING DONE.

The following letter from the Red Cross headquarters is offered for publication in the hope that it will lead to further contributions to the Sea Island relief fund:

The American National Red Cross, New York, Sept. 27, 1893.

F. W. Houghton, esq., superintendent Maritime Association, New York.

Dear Sir: The problem is an exceedingly grave one, requiring much time and thought to arrive at any satisfactory conclusion. Since our arrival, a little over a week ago, we have been industriously investigating the districts, taking testimony, conferring with delegates, and otherwise gathering correct data on which to base an accurate judgment. Here is a recent report from one of our officers which, I think, may be taken at a low average for the entire district. We have personally investigated the following places:

Place.	Families.	People.	Property.	Value.	Damage.

Total for Sea Island Relief Fund: $11,109.75

You can hardly judge of the gigantic work ahead of us and how vital it is for all charitable people to give all they can. There are thirty thousand people, ranging from the utterly destitute and helpless up to the class requiring partial aid, and these have to be looked after, fed, clothed and sheltered until late next spring, when their new crop will be available. They need every necessity of life; their houses are gone, as you will see by the report. These will have to be rebuilt, and the boards and lumber can be found in the drift, and new ones will have to be constructed where nothing was left of the old homes. Hatchets, saws and nails are required for this purpose.

There are not more than five per cent requiring clothing at present, but as cold weather comes on large quantities of garments will be necessary. Their rations are small, but of good quality. Little pork is given, for it is a grave question whether funds and provisions will be sent in sufficient quantities to warrant giving more than the bare "hard pan" necessities of life. We will be most grateful if you will continue your splendid work, for we assure you that every dollar that can be raised will be needed. As our officers continue their canvases, we will be glad to send you reports if they will be of interest to your honorable body. According to Governor Tillman's proclamation, all supplies, funds, etc., should be sent to Miss Barton, at Beaufort, so you may, if you will, carry out such suggestion. Cordially yours, GEORGE H. PULLMAN.

The following additional contributions to the Sea Island Relief Fund have been received by George L. Dale, treasurer.

E. H. Durkee & Co., New York City	$30.00
American Nat. and Twin Co., New York City	25.40
Cornell & Ward, New York City	10.00
Previously acknowledged	$10,909.35
Total	$11,109.75

A meeting is called at the New-York Fruit Exchange for October 2, at 3 p. m., to appoint committees to obtain aid for the suffering South Carolina farmers. The call is made by twenty of the largest fruit dealers on the West Side.

PROMINENT PEOPLE ON THE UMBRIA.

Among the passengers on the Cunard steamship Umbria, which arrived here yesterday from Liverpool, was A. D. Provand, Member of Parliament for Blackfriars, Glasgow. Mr. Provand comes to the United States partly on business and partly for pleasure. He will return on the Campania in October, in time for the opening of Parliament. He is a Gladstonian. He thinks the House of Lords will pass the Home Rule bill sooner or later, being unable to resist the pressure of public opinion. There is no chance of the Queen attempting to change the political complexion of the upper house by nominating a large number of peers. It would require at least 500 new peers, an altogether impossible number. Among the other passengers on the Umbria were Walter Damrosch, leader of the Philharmonic Society; "Dick" Burge and "Charley" Blake, two English pugilists; Captain R. C. Clipperton, British Consul at Philadelphia; Dr. Russell, the Rev. Otis A. Smith, the Rev. A. J. Lyman and Count Schlippenbach.

WORK OF THE CATHOLIC MARONITES.

The congregation of Catholic Maronites in this city, founded three years ago by the Rev. D. Korkmaz, who is still its pastor, has, until now, used a poorly fitted-up room on the ground floor of No. 127 Washington-st. for a chapel. The floors above being occupied by several families, the blessed sacrament could not be kept in the chapel. To remedy this Father Korkmaz has lately rented the top floor of No. 81 Washington-st., and fitted it into a chapel as well as the means of his poor congregation would permit. Next Sunday, October 8, at 8 a. m., Monsignor Farley will solemnly bless the new chapel. The Maronites immigrated from the Lebanon Mountains, on the northern boundary of the Holy Land, and where they had been often cruelly persecuted by the followers of Mahomet. Its priests say mass in the Syro-Chaldaic language. Sermons and religious instruction are given in the Arab language. The Maronites ask the American Catholics to help them to build, as soon as possible, a little church for their congregation. Donations for this purpose will be accepted by the Rev. P. Korkmaz, No. 8 Carleton-st., by the Rev. James H. McGee, No. 15 Barclay-st., and by J. Schaefer, publisher, No. 14 Barclay-st.
